

The Australian Women's Register

Entry type: Resource
Entry ID: AWH000844

An informal group of members of the Australian Women's Army Services (AWAS) model their improvised costumes for a musical comedy and revue.

Repository Australian War Memorial, Research Centre

Reference P02698.001

Date Range 1945 - 1945

Formats Photograph

Details

Darwin, NT. 1945. An informal group of members of the Australian Women's Army Services (AWAS) model their improvised costumes for a musical comedy and revue. The revue "Blue Horizon" was organised by the Australian Army Amenities Service and produced by Alan Cairnes and Dudley Simpson. NF482322 Lieutenant (Lt) Elva Baikie, as Amenities Officer for the Australian Women's Service was involved with organising the dancers. Left to right: Joy Graham; Barbara Hutchison, Marjorie Graham; Anne Steeles; Peggy Pentland; Jean Outteridge and Trixie Mayall. Anne Steeles was the singer and the remaining girls were the "ladies of the ballet". Note the barely disguised army shoes that the dancers had to wear. (Donor E. Batt) dancers.

Author Details

Anne Heywood

Created 4 April 2003

Last modified 4 January 2018