

The Australian Women's Register

Entry type: Person
Entry ID: PR00775

Bignell, Margaret Annie

(1853 - 1940)

Born	23 January, 1853, New Norfolk Tasmania Australia
Died	30 October, 1940, East Brunswick Victoria Australia
Occupation	Pharmacist

Summary

Margaret Annie Bignell was the seventh daughter of William and Elizabeth Blyth, of Hobart. She became Victoria's first registered female pharmacist, and one of the first women pharmacists to conduct her own business in the state, carrying on her husband's pharmacy in Lygon Street, Carlton, after his death in 1897. She was known for apprenticing women, and was an activist for the recognition of women pharmacists. Two of her daughters entered the profession. She was a subscribing member of the Pharmaceutical Society of Victoria, and a founding member of the Women Pharmacists' Association, formed in 1905 to promote the interests of women pharmacists.

Published resources

Resource

Trove, National Library of Australia, 2009

Book

Victorian College of Pharmacy: 125 Years of History, 1881-2006, Bomford, Janette, 2006

Archival resources

W L Crowther Library

[Anne \[i.e. Ann\] Blyth - Mrs Bignell \[Photograph\]](#)

Public Record Office Victoria, Victorian Archives Centre

Pharmacy Board of Victoria

State Library of Victoria

[Records. \[manuscript\].](#)

Author Details

Janet Butler

Created 18 December 2009
Last modified 17 December 2009