

Entry type: Concept

Entry ID: AWE6537

Women at the National Gallery Art School, Melbourne

Summary

By the turn of the twentieth century women were visible and active participants in all major Australian art schools, including the National Gallery School in Melbourne, where female students far outnumbered males.

Author Details

Alannah Croom

Created 27 March 2019

Last modified 13 June 2019