Details

The Germaine Greer Archive currently fills 487 archive boxes (occupying 82 metres of shelf space) mainly documenting the period 1959-2010. It is still in the process of being created; two deposits were received in 2016 and a third was delivered by Germaine Greer in March 2017. The University of Melbourne purchased the archive in 2013.??The archive documents Greer's work as an academic, a film, TV and theatre performer, a writer (notably her extensive work as a journalist) and an environmentalist, as well as her personal relationships with friends, lovers, family, colleagues, students and fans.??A detailed list of the archive and access conditions is available via the link below.
