

Entry type: Resource
Entry ID: AWH000840

Balcony of troopers' ward, 14th Australian General Hospital, Abbassia

---

Repository Australian War Memorial, Research Centre

---

Reference ART02815

---

Date Range 1919 - 1919

---

Formats Painting

---

Details

Framed: 41.3 x 54.5 cm; unframed: 32 x 45.6 cm?Oil and pencil on wood panel??An unidentified Light Horse trooper is featured in a balcony ward of 14 Australian General Hospital. There is a bed by the window screened with portable screens and a nurse is standing at the foot of the bed (the way her veil is tied suggests that she is a volunteer nurse rather than a fully qualified nursing sister). The nurse is Mrs G. A. Aumuller. The Light Horse trooper is dressed in the standard royal-blue dress with a white shirt and a red neck tie issued to convalescents. He is standing coyly, holding his hat in his hand. This work was painted between mid-April and 25 May 1919 at Abbassia in Egypt, during the six weeks that Lambert was in hospital suffering from dysentery.

Author Details

Anne Heywood

Created 4 April 2003

Last modified 4 January 2018